

You Are There! March on Washington, August 28, 1963 (TIME®: Informational Text)

VOCABULARY

Word	Student-friendly definition accolades	when you receive praise or awards for doing something well cadence	when you notice the rhythm or flow in how someone speaks or writes conviction	when you strongly believe something and stand by it degradation	when someone or something is treated as less important or is broken down dissipate	when something slowly fades away or spreads out eccentric	when someone behaves in a way that is unusual or different frenzy	when you act with wild or excited energy invigorates	when something gives you new energy or excitement morphing	when something slowly changes into something else solemn	when you feel serious and thoughtful solidarity	when you stand together with others for a shared purpose throng	when many people gather closely together